

your Fidelity Total Rewards

▶ Fidelity Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan

Frequently Asked Questions

- Plan Overview and Eligibility2
- Plan Credits3
- Requesting Reimbursement3
- Transferring Between Companies4
- Leaving Fidelity Employment4
- In the Event of Death4
- How the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan Impacts Other Fidelity Benefits5
- COBRA5
- Resources5

Smart move.®

Plan Overview and Eligibility

What is the Fidelity Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan?

The Fidelity Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan (“the Plan”) is designed to help eligible employees pay for eligible medical expenses incurred in retirement.

When did the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan become effective?

The Plan became effective on January 1, 2007.

How does the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan work?

The Plan allows Fidelity to make annual Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits¹ for each eligible employee. Fidelity intends to make the following credits:

- $3,000 credit for regular employees, regularly scheduled to work 30 or more hours per week.
- $1,500 credit for regular employees, regularly scheduled to work at least 20 hours but fewer than 30 hours per week.

The annual credit is determined each year, subject to the availability of sufficient company profits and cash flow. A credit is not an actual cash contribution to an individual account; no dollar amounts are held in your name. Rather, a credit provides a “bookkeeping” method for you and Fidelity to track amounts you may be able to use for eligible expenses in retirement. In addition, employees must meet initial and ongoing eligibility requirements, described to the right. Eligible employees who die or retire during the year receive a pro-rated credit based on the number of months worked during the year in which the employee died or retired.

¹ Subject to the availability of sufficient Company profits and cash flow.

Who is eligible to receive credits?

Regular employees who work at least 20 hours per week become eligible to receive credits on the first business day of the first month after completing 12 consecutive months and 1,000 hours of service. This 12-month period is measured from your adjusted date of hire to the anniversary of that date. Once you satisfy these initial eligibility requirements, you will receive the annual credit amount for each subsequent year in which you are:

- Credited with 1,000 hours of service during the calendar year, and
- Actively employed on the last business day of the calendar year.

What medical expenses are eligible for reimbursement?

Eligible medical expenses include the following expenses incurred after you become a participant in the plan:

- Deductibles
- Co-payments
- Out-of-pocket medical expenses not covered, or partially covered, by medical, dental, or other group health plans
- Medical plan premiums, including COBRA premiums
- Medicare premiums, including Part A, Part B, Part D and Medicare HMOs for individuals over age 65
- Long-term care insurance premiums, subject to certain limits

For a complete list of qualified eligible expenses, go to www.irs.gov and refer to IRS publications 502 or 969.

When can I use my plan credits?

You become a participant in the plan and able to use your plan credits when you meet all of the following criteria:

1. Retired or terminated employment with Fidelity,
2. Credited with at least 10 years of service with Fidelity, and
3. Are at least age 55.

Plan Credits

What is the value of each credit?

Each credit is the equivalent of one dollar. Although there are no actual dollar amounts held in your name, you can track the credit balance that you may be eligible to use in the future. Go to NetBenefits > FMR Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan or to www.acclarisonline.com.

Can I contribute to the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan?

No. Only Fidelity can make credits to the Plan.

Do the credits earn interest?

Yes. The credits earn a fixed interest rate that is determined annually. Interest is credited on a daily basis and posted on the Acclaris Reimbursement Center following the end of each month.

Can I invest the credits?

No. Eligible employees may not direct the investment of the credits that accumulate in the Plan on their behalf. Instead, a fixed interest rate is credited each month.

Am I taxed on the amounts credited on my behalf to the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan or on amounts reimbursed for eligible medical expenses?

No. The following are important tax advantages of the Plan:

- Credits Fidelity makes on your behalf are not taxable.
- Interest that accrues on the credits is tax-free.
- Reimbursements for eligible medical expenses incurred in retirement are not taxable.

Both my spouse and I work for Fidelity; do we each receive Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits?

Yes, provided you and your spouse each satisfy the initial and ongoing eligibility requirements to receive Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits.

Am I able to view the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits?

Yes. You can track your Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits online at the Acclaris Reimbursement Center, accessible through NetBenefits > FMR Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan or at www.acclarisonline.com.

Requesting Reimbursement

When can I submit requests for reimbursement?

You may access credits after leaving Fidelity employment if you are age 55 or older and have been credited with at least 10 years of service. If you have 10 years of service when you leave Fidelity but are not age 55, you can access credits once you turn age 55.

How do I make a reimbursement request?

To receive reimbursement from the Plan, you must complete a reimbursement form, which is available online at the Acclaris Reimbursement Center. You should submit the claim form along with the required supporting documentation. You will receive a reimbursement check, or the amount can be directly deposited into your bank account, provided that you have sufficient available credits. Expenses must be submitted within 24 months from the date they were incurred.

Can I receive reimbursement while I am still employed with Fidelity?

No. Reimbursements under the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan are not available while you are actively employed with Fidelity, even if you are age 55 or older.

Is there a limit on the amount of credits which can be reimbursed in any given year?

No, provided the request is for eligible medical expenses and sufficient credits are available.

Transferring Between Companies

What happens if I transfer between Fidelity companies?

- If you transfer from a non-participating company to a participating company

If you worked at least 1,000 hours with the participating company in the calendar year you transferred and were employed on the last business day of the year, you are eligible to receive credits provided you have met initial eligibility requirements. Credits will be pro-rated based on the number of months in the year you worked at the participating company (1/12 of the annual credits for each month credited). Your adjusted date of hire is used to determine your years of service.

- If you transfer from a participating to a non-participating company

If you worked at least 1,000 hours with the participating company and are employed with the non-participating company on the last business day of the year, you are eligible to receive credits provided you have met initial eligibility requirements. Credits will be pro-rated based on the number of months in the year you worked at the participating company (1/12 of the annual credits for each month credited). Interest will continue to accrue on credits, but you will earn no additional credits while you work at a non-participating company. Your adjusted date of hire is used to determine your years of service.

Leaving Fidelity Employment

What happens to my credits if I leave Fidelity with 10 years of service?

If you leave Fidelity at or after age 55 and have 10 years of service, you will be immediately eligible to participate in the Plan and to submit for reimbursement of eligible medical expenses.

If you leave Fidelity prior to age 55 and after you have been credited with at least 10 years of service, you will be eligible to participate in the Plan once you reach age 55. You can then submit for reimbursement of eligible medical expenses.

What happens to my credits if I leave Fidelity with less than 10 years of service?

If you leave Fidelity and have not completed 10 years of service, you will not be a participant in the plan and not be eligible to submit requests for reimbursement.

What happens to my credits if I leave Fidelity with less than 10 years of service and return to work at Fidelity?

If you leave for five or more years, your past credits will not be reinstated if you later are re-employed by Fidelity.

When does my participation in the Plan end?

Your participation in the plan ends when you have been reimbursed for all of the credits accumulated on your behalf under the Plan.

In the Event of Death

In the even of my death, what happens to my credits?

- If you die after leaving Fidelity with 10 or more years of service, but before age 55

Your surviving spouse* will have access to your credit balance immediately. If there is no surviving spouse, the credits will be forfeited.

- If you die while you are eligible to receive reimbursements from the Plan

Your surviving spouse* will have access to your remaining credit balance. If there is no surviving spouse, the credits will be forfeited.

- If you die while still employed with Fidelity

Your surviving spouse is immediately eligible to begin receiving reimbursement for eligible medical expenses regardless of your age or years of service, provided you have met the initial eligibility requirements and have a credit balance.

* For purposes of the Fidelity Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan, you are considered to be married only if you have a spouse who is a member of the opposite sex, in accordance of how the terms "marriage" and "spouse" are defined under the Federal Defense of Marriage Act of 1996.

How the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan Impacts Other Company Benefits

What is the difference between the Fidelity Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan and the Fidelity Health Savings Account® (HSA)?

The Fidelity Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan and Fidelity Health Savings Account are two separate programs that offer a way to pay for eligible medical expenses in retirement. Credits in the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan are used to determine the dollars that may be available to reimburse participants for eligible medical expenses incurred in retirement. A Fidelity HSA is a tax-advantaged account that you may establish if you elect coverage under the HealthFlex High-Deductible Plan. You own the Fidelity HSA, and assets in your account can be used to pay for qualified medical expenses before and during retirement.

Do the Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits affect the amount I can contribute to the 401(k) feature under the Profit Sharing Plan?

No. Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan credits have no impact on the amount you can contribute to the Profit Sharing Plan or on the total tax-deferred contributions that may be made on your behalf in a given calendar year.

COBRA

What is COBRA?

The Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 (COBRA) requires employers to offer employees and their families the opportunity to temporarily continue their group health coverage under the Plan in certain instances where coverage under the Plan would otherwise end.

Is the Plan subject to COBRA?

Yes. Employees who terminate from Fidelity, are at least age 55, and have 10 or more years of service are eligible to be reimbursed for eligible medical expenses incurred by the employee and his or her spouse. Under this plan, the only instance when an individual would lose coverage would be divorce or legal separation. Therefore, the ex-spouse is eligible to continue the Plan under COBRA. Written notice will be provided to the spouse within 14 days following receipt of notice of divorce or legal separation, provided HR Solutions is made aware of the divorce or legal separation within 60 days of the event. If notification is given after 60 days, the ex-spouse will not be eligible for COBRA coverage.

What is the cost for a spouse to continue the Plan after a qualifying event occurs?

COBRA premium amounts are determined annually and can be obtained by calling HR Solutions at 800-835-5099, prompt 1.

How is COBRA elected?

The ex-spouse must elect COBRA coverage by calling HR Solutions within 60 days of the date coverage is lost or the date that the COBRA election notice is received.

How long can COBRA be continued?

The ex-spouse can continue COBRA for up to 36 months or until all Plan credits have been used.

Resources

How do I access plan forms and information?

To access plan information, go to NetBenefits. Select the FMR Retiree Health Reimbursement Plan link, then the Acclaris Reimbursement Center link. If you are a new user, select "New User Registration" and follow the instructions to establish a User ID and PIN.

What if I have questions about the Plan?

If you have questions or need more information, go to NetBenefits > News > Retirement Program Changes, or call Acclaris at 866-203-9358.

What retirement planning tools are available?

Fidelity provides many innovative resources to support your retirement planning. There are several retirement planning tools, including the Retirement Healthcare Cost Estimator, available in the Tools & Learning section on the homepage of NetBenefits. These tools may help you prepare for retirement, invest for the future, and monitor your overall financial portfolio.